Dear Professor Haslam,

Re: NICE Guideline on the management of type 2 diabetes in adults.

As registered stakeholders that responded to the draft update to the guideline, the Association of British Clinical Diabetologists and the Royal College of Physicians of London were encouraged to learn that the GDG had subsequently made 'substantial changes' to the draft recommendations.

We are writing to ask whether NICE intends to give stakeholders an opportunity to comment on the revised guideline before it is published in August. If not, we would urge you to consider doing so, to ensure the maximum possible support for this important document.

Yours sincerely,

Dr Rob Gregory
