

Oak Street Surgery

Cwmbran

Gwent

NP44 3LT

1st May 2015

Professor David Haslam

NICE

Dear Professor Haslam

We are delighted to hear that NICE are reviewing the original Draft Guideline on Type 2 diabetes Mellitus and note that substantive changes are to be made . We note that the date for publication will remain August 2015.

The Original draft guideline has caused considerable concerns and was felt to be cumbersome and likely to cause confusion in non-specialist care . It was felt that this guideline would put patients at risk and lead to errors in their management . The Primary Care Diabetes Society felt that they could not recommend the draft guideline as it stood and , alongside other stakeholders asked for review .

We are concerned that the final guideline is due for publication without further consultation with the major stakeholders . We are keen to support a guideline that reflects current , safe and prudent health practices and feel that further consultation should be sought before final publication.

Yours sincerely

PCDS
Primary Care Diabetes Society

David Millar-Jones , on behalf of PCDS

Rob Gregory , on behalf of ABCD

Debbie Hicks, on behalf of TREND-UK

DiABETES UK
CARE. CONNECT. CAMPAIGN.

Simon O'Neill , on behalf of Diabetes UK

Professor Wasim Hanif

Chair Diabetes South Asian Health Foundation.

Anthony H. Barnett,

Emeritus Professor of Medicine and Consultant Physician,

University of Birmingham and Heart of England NHS Foundation Trust, Birmingham

Dr. N. Kanumilli

Lead for Performance and Quality

Clinical Lead Long Term Conditions

South Manchester Clinical Commissioning Group

Bridget Turner

Director of Policy and Care Improvement

